FREE GUIDE TO HEATING THAT COULD HELP HOMEOWNERS MAKE BIG ENERGY SAVINGS

As winter approaches homeowners can request a completely free booklet called 'Your Guide to Home Heating' – available from the Heating Helpline, it's a comprehensive look at every aspect of energy-efficient heating including ways to reduce utility bills.

Following the recent launch of the Heating Helpline, the free advice service managed by the Heating and Ventilating Contractors' Association (HVCA), homeowners can get their own booklet entitled Your Guide to Home Heating.

Packed with useful information, the guide covers all aspects of energy-efficient home heating, explains the importance of energy saving at home and explains everything you need to know about renewable technologies and the need for regular maintenance of boilers. It also offers money saving solutions and provides advice on how to avoid rogue traders along with an essential contacts list and a useful “jargon-busting” glossary.

As winter approaches and family budgets are stretched to their limits, this booklet can help home owners and tenants to reduce their energy bills and to ensure their heating systems operate safely and efficiently.

Householders and tenants can request the booklet by calling the Heating Helpline on 0800 840 4069, or can download an electronic version at the Heating Helpline website at: www.heatinghelpline.org.uk.

Note to Editors

Established in 1904, HVCA is the officially recognised organisation representing central heating contractors and exists to promote best practice and the sound installation of heating systems.

All HVCA members that operate in the domestic sector are members of the Gas Safe Register (the official register for qualified and reputable heating engineers that has replaced CORGI) and are also all members of the Government-backed TrustMark initiative. As a trade association HVCA also requires that all its members undergo third party inspection and assessment, which verifies technical competence, commercial capability and customer service.
